

This phase included additions which connects six of the original eight separate buildings and created a new main entrance and student activity center / lecture hall at the center of the campus.

Student Activity Center Interior

The placement of classroom additions, along with creation of "Team Rooms" within the academic areas, allows the school to operate several "houses" where sub-groups of five to six classrooms work with core groups of teachers in a highly interactive teaching atmosphere. Included in this phase were also additions to the fitness center, music department, science department, technology upgrade, and ADA improvements.

View of Entrance

bpharchitects

Kellogg Middle School, Shoreline District